

RUTGERS

UNIVERSITY | CAMDEN
Division of Diversity, Inclusion and Community Engagement

Urban Innovation Grantees

- Asiyah Kurtz from Camden Fireworks and Jacob Wolos, graduate student in English and Communication - From Unwanted to Empowered: A Geographical Inquiry Engaging Camden's Transient and Unhoused Residents in Community Mapping
- Elaysel German, doctoral graduate student in Childhood Studies and Vietlead project focused on intergenerational education programs that aim to strengthen Camden youth's civic engagement and environmental stewardship
- Laura Napolitano and Jane Siegel in Sociology, Anthropology and Criminal Justice and Camden County Correctional Facility (CCCF) to rethink the institutional relationships between Rutgers-Camden, the Camden County Correctional Facility (CCCF), and the surrounding community of children and families
- Devon Ziminski at Walter Rand Institute project focused on Evaluation of the Camden Coalition Medical Legal Partnership at the Cooper Center for Healing in Camden City
- Stephen Danley in Public Policy and Administration working with One Camden study in supporting parental decision-making/ priorities underlying equitable school choice
- Nathaniel Wright in Public Policy and Administration Examining the Influence of Community-based development organizations (CBDO) on Perceived Community Well-Being in Camden Neighborhoods